SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT NO. 25X1X

1. The last demobilization of conscripts who had completed two years of military service occurred towards the end of October 1951, a month later than the scheduled date. The delay was supposedly caused because the Army was unable to finish the training of the demobilized class on time.
2. Although Source has no knowledge of the number of conscripts being drafted, he believes the number has been increased because many conscripts have been found physically unfit for strenuous training. Source has no knowledge of any extension of basic military service from the normal two years.
